VARSAITY BOXERS AND WRESTLERS SCORED DECISIVE VICTORY AT BIG MEET HERE ON SATURDAY NIGHT

Piled up a Total of Twelve Points—McGill Registered Five Wins—Queen's Men Unfortunate—Exciting Boxing Bouts—Merritt's Game Fight—Rumple Scored Nice Victory—Gray and Black Were Varsity Stars

Saturday night, before a crowd of spectators that filled the Union Ball Room to capacity, the University of Toronto boxing, wrestling and fencing team fought its way to a decisive victory over the representatives of Queen's and McGill. The Varsity squad piled up a total of twelve points, the McGill team registered five wins in all, while the Queen's entries were unable to break into the scoring column. Every bout of the finals, particularly the wrestling, was keenly contested and although Queen's men were not fortunate enough to score they worked hard and fought gamely from start to finish. The majority of wrestling bouts were evenly contested and in most cases the winner got the decision only by a shade. The boxing displays were all heavy hitting and slugging contests and enthusiasm during these engagements ran so high that the crowd had to be cautioned for their noisiness on several occasions.

To give every man a fair chance it was ruled that silence be observed during all the bouts, but when some of the boxers began mixing it in the final rounds it was beyond human power for the spectators to hold their voices and at times they bellowed forth their delight.

The bouts were handled by the same men who officiated in Friday night's performance, and again they gave their decisions with good judgement, and conducted the affair in a very satisfactory manner. Both Mr. Long and Mr. Roberts are to be congratulated upon their good work.

The first contest began at seven forty-five, and it was nearly twelve when the crowd rose to go, many of which trouped down to the cafeteria to discuss the events of the evening.

The fencers were first to make their appearance, when the final bout of a series of ten was staged. Saturday afternoon saw a tournament of nine duels, each man crossing foils with every member of the other teams. In the afternoon's duels the Red and White fencers came off with flying colours, and wound up the tournament successfully when Crestohl won from Maybee of Queen's by a 5 to 2 in the

Final Informal Friday Evening

Glen Adney's Famous Orchestra in Attendance

Those wishing to take advantage of spending an enjoyable and profitable evening for the small sum of two dollars can do so by obtaining one of the few remaining tickets left for the last Informal Dance. The Union House Committee, realizing that this is to be the last dance of the year under their supervision, have done everything possible to make it a brilliant event. After much trouble, Glen Adney and his famous Ritz-Carlton orchestra have been engaged to supply the music. This in itself, is sufficient to assure everyone a good time.

To those who have never had the opportunity of attending an Informal should avail themselves of the last chance before settling down to the monotonous grind of examinations. Tickets will be on sale everyday until the day of the dance Friday the 22nd, and may be obtained from the porter at the Union.

After the fencing bout, the mat was laid in the ring and the opposing 112 lb. grapplers, Webster of Toronto and Cheekley of Queen's came together. Webster demonstrated his superiority over the Kingston man by securing the first fall in three minutes, and winning the bout by duplicating this feat two minutes later. In the 115 lb. class Wood of McGill and Keifetz of Toronto did some very strenuous wrestling. The majority of the time both men were on their feet and the bout went to the Toronto man because of his aggressiveness.

The boxers made their first appearance when Schleifer of McGill and Putman of Toronto in the 112 lb. class were introduced to the spectators. In the first two rounds Putman missed frequently and Schleifer seemed rather unconcerned although he amused the crowd by his antics. However in the third and in the two extra rounds which followed the boxers mixed it so freely that the onlookers gave up trying to contain themselves and hawled their approval. Schleifer gave a nice exhibition and was awarded the decision.

The 118 lb. boxing bout which followed was a bloody affair and both boxers were covered with gore. Hubbard of Toronto opened up a cut over Hannah's eye, the Queen's man, and

DR. EBERTS TO ADDRESS MEDICALS

The Legacy of Greece to Medicine
PROMINENT SURGEON
Lots of Eats and a Good Time to All

The Medical Undergraduates Society will meet in the Assembly Hall of the New Medical Building at 8.15 p.m. to-day. The speaker will be Dr. E. M. Eberts who has been recently appointed to the Professorship of Surgery at McGill. The subject "The Legacy of Greece to Medicine" is one of great interest to all Medical Students. A record crowd is expected to be present.

Dr. Eberts has for a number of years been connected with the service of the Montreal General Hospital and has built up a reputation and established a confidence in his patients that has been equalled by few. He has also done some very successful work in the treatment of Thyroids which has earned for him a very enviable repute among the surgeons of this continent. In general surgery he has also done some good work.

"The Legacy of Greece to Medicine" which Dr. Eberts takes as his subject is one of the fundamental parts of Medical History. It is therefore one of subjects that is of great interest to all Medical men. The average Medical student of to-day knows very little of the contributions that Greece and her civilization have made to this Science.

The treasurer of the Society, Mr. Dempsey has stated that he will have lots of the very best "Eats" that Maitlands can supply for the occasion.

A TITLE CHANGES HANDS

After holding the championship for Intercollegiate boxing, wrestling and fencing for the brief space of one year, the McGill squad has once again tasted defeat and the title has returned to the University of Toronto. And we were forced to take the very short end of a twelve to five score, which constitutes one of the most crushing setbacks in this line of sport during recent years. But there are no excuses to offer, there are no alibis, and there is no side-stepping the decision. The Varsity men won because they were, as a rule, better fighters, in better condition and possessing more aggressiveness. They made the most of their opportunities and as a result now hold the honours. We offer them our congratulations, for we know that the title has passed into worthy hands.

But though the McGill team was defeated, it was not disgraced, for the representatives of the Red and White were fine athletes, were game, and accepted the outcome as sportsmen should. The squad went down but it went down before a superior aggregation and that surely is nothing to be ashamed at.

Yes, the Assault is now a thing of the past and the emblem of victory is ours no longer. But there are Assaults to come in the future and now is the time to start planning, practising, working and hoping for next year. We have been defeated but that only shows that we can defeat. Who knows but that the title may once again belong to McGill in twelve months time.

ARE YOU GETTING THE MOST FROM COLLEGE?

We sometimes wonder whether students realize that what they get out of a college education is directly proportional to what they put into the community life of the university.

The old idea that education means solely the accumulation of knowledge is fast dying out, and nowadays we expect much more from the educated man than the acquirements of a pedant or an efficiency expert. Education is coming to be regarded as a training in wisdom rather than a sort of force pump of knowledge. It is a discipline, a way of living, an attitude towards life, and the measure of its success or failure is in the character that it produces.

This is the reason why so much time is devoted at our universities to activities of an unacademic nature, and as opportunity given to all to enter into the community life afforded by social and athletic events. There are often more of the character-building qualities of intelligence, pluck and sportsmanship to be found on the gridiron or in the ring than in a classroom or lecture hall and it often takes more industry or ability to adequately fulfil a position of responsibility on the executive of an undergraduate organization than it is to sweat up and pass a stiff exam. We do not mean to infer by this that classrooms and professors and examination are unimportant. But it is not necessary to stress this importance. We are compelled to recognize it whether we want to or not—the one-eighth rule, the necessity of passing, and the need of fitting ourselves for a profession all bring home to us the value of that side of education. But an eager participation in the activities of college life is not compulsory. The character-building value of mingling with your fellows cannot be recognized by rule and statute, and consequently the student who wants to get the most out of college life must attend to this side of his education for himself.

There are, of course, those who do take part in college activities as much as they possibly can; there are more who do so to a limited extent; but there are too many misguided wasters who go through college and get about as much of the experience as if they were taking a correspondence course or studying with a private tutor.

We wish we could impress the fact upon every student at this university that the aim of college education is to build character and turn out men and gentlemen accomplished in the art of living.

Be interested in your fellow students. Get to know them make friends.

If you are physically fit get into some athletic activity—the university provided enough to suit everybody—and if you're not fit, get so.

Join some of the many clubs and societies, take an active interest in them, attend the meetings, and don't be afraid to get up on your feet and take part in discussion.

Be proud of your university and live to the fullest extent in the community life of the college.

This is the greatest way to get the greatest benefit from your college education, and you can only get what you put into it. Make the most of your opportunities to participate in the active life of the university.

PIGS VS. STUDENTS

Over fifty colleges on this continent are teaching young men how to feed pigs economically and well. It is beginning to be realized however that the feeding of man is of more consequence than the feeding of pigs or steers. Yet there are a hundred people who know how to feed pigs and steers where there is one who understands fully the feeding of humans.

R.V.C. FIRST TEAM BEATS MacDONALD

Two Basketball Games Played in Montreal High

HONOURS DIVIDED

Yellow and Green Second Team is Victorious

On Saturday afternoon the Girls' gym of the Montreal High School was the scene of two basketball matches between R.V.C. and Macdonald College. A first and a second team game was played, the first Red and White team defeating the Mac. Yellow and Green by the score of 26-12. The Macdonald second team however had the upper hand in their game and chalked up 34 points against their opponents 20.

The senior game was fast and interesting throughout, and the R.V.C. team showed marked improvement upon their work-out of a few days ago. Their passing was good and their ability to get clear and free from being defended was noticeable. The Mac. forwards, especially at the beginning of the game, had very hard luck with their shots, but in the second period played up splendidly, and in spite of the fact that they were very heavily guarded, scored often than their opponents. Miss Delahaye in centre, did some very good work for Mac, while Miss E. Dunton and Miss Cameron on defense, starred for R.V.C.

SENIOR TEAM GAME First Period

At the opening of the game the red and white team out-played their opponents and, within a few minutes, dropped three shots into the basket. The Mac. players then began to pull themselves together, and forced the pace for a while until R.V.C. fouled and Miss Cassils scored the first point for her team. The teams now settled down in earnest to a hard battle. The centres on both sides did some very good work and the ball travelled quickly from one end of the floor to the other. Miss Dunton after a pretty piece of combination with Miss Fraser, slipped the ball to Miss Murray who scored and a moment later the manoeuvre was repeated, making the score 10-1 in favour of the home team.

After this the Mac. centres kept the ball at their end of the floor for some time but due to the splendid checking of the R.V.C. defense, Miss D. Dunton and Miss Cameron, the shots could not make a basket. The R.V.C. centres, seeing an opening, carried the ball to Miss Murray who again scored. There followed a double foul, but neither team made their free shots and the ball was brought back to centre. Within the next two minutes Miss Russell scored twice and Miss Murray once for R.V.C. Miss Russell putting in a spectacular field goal which drew applause. The game drew faster as the end of the period drew near. On a pass from centre, Miss Little scored for Mac, and as soon as the ball returned to play Miss Fraser gave Miss Russell a pass and the latter dropped the ball through the ring. Immediately after this the whistle blew for time. R.V.C. 20, Macdonald 3.

Second Period

The second period opened with an R.V.C. foul and Mac. scored. From the Mac. end of the field the red and white centres with a spectacular rush carried the ball to Miss Murray who dropped it through the ring. R.V.C. made two more shots in quick succession and completed their scoring for the game.

The Yellow and Green team began to pick up wonderfully and on every opportunity the centres carried the ball to their forwards who were nevertheless very well guarded and found it hard to get many shots at the basket. The play grew fast and furious, both teams putting their best into the struggle. Miss Cassils, of the Green and Yellow, scored on a pass from Miss Delahaye in centre, and almost immediately scored again. The ball travelled at a great pace up and down the field and no chances were given for shooting. The Mac. players after a hard battle, got the ball to Miss Cassils who put it through the ring, and made the last basket. After the ball was tossed up at centre Mac. fouled but R.V.C. failed to score and before the play could recommence the whistle blew for time. R.V.C. 26, Macdonald 12.

The line up was as follows:

Macdonald	R.V.C.
Shots	Murray
Cassils	Russell
Defense
MacLeod	E. Dunton
Baker	Cameron
Centre
Delahaye	Fraser
Copland	R. Dunton

JUNIOR TEAM GAME

The game between the second teams of Macdonald and R.V.C. ended in a victory for the Green and Gold. The play throughout this game however was characterized by much fumbling and inaccurate passing. Much credit is due to Miss Taylor of Mac. for her splendid shooting. Miss D. Robertson of R.V.C. played a very good game in centre, many

SENIOR BASKETBALL SQUAD LOSES TO PRESBYTERIANS IN CLASH AT KINGSTON

Score 35-17—Combination and Accurate Shooting of Tricolour Quintette Responsible for Victory—Philpotts of Red and White Turns in Fine Game—Haslam of Queen's Gives Brilliant Exhibition—Game Exceptionally Clean

On Saturday night at Kingston, the McGill Senior Basketball team went down to defeat at the hands of the tricolour squad from Queen's by the score of 35-17. The game was not particularly fast and the defensive system of the Presbyterians had the McGill forwards guessing. Queen's had an edge on the play during the greater part of the evening and it was only occasionally that the Red and White showed flashes of championship form. They did not seem to be able to get going and a great many golden opportunities of scoring were tossed away on account of wild passes and overanxiety.

The score just about indicates the play and Queen's outplayed their opponents for nearly the whole game and after ten minutes had elapsed the issue was never in doubt. They outmanoeuvred the McGill forwards and fixed the pace from bell to bell.

On account of the counter attraction of the hockey game between R. M. C. and Westpoint, the gymnasium was not filled to capacity but the crowd who did turn out were impartial in their applause and each good play on either side was cheered vigorously. Referee Phillips of Kingston Collegiate Institute handled the game in a very satisfactory manner and kept the players well under his control without slowing up the game.

Although defeated by a good margin the game was by no means uninteresting and the fans were kept in a high state of excitement all during the play.

The Red and White players forced the tricolour to go the limit and they never relaxed in their efforts to overcome the big lead established by Queen's in the first half.

The Presbyterians had their combination down to a fine point and this, together with the advantage of playing on their own floor gave them a distinct edge on the play.

The accurate shooting of Haslam, the tricolour captain, provided the feature of the game and he made several beautiful baskets, incidentally carrying off the scoring honours for the evening. This tricky forward was everywhere at once and his brilliant shooting and rushing brought forth rounds of applause from the spectators.

Hunter, the lanky centre of the Queen's aggregation had a distinct advantage over Hanson in the matter of reach, and when he was taken off during the latter part of the game his absence made itself felt and the Red and White players made a determined rally which netted them several well earned points. Hunter played consistently all evening, was literally a tower of strength to his team.

Jones is a swift and tricky forward and he ran Haslam a close second in the matter of scoring his team's baskets. He is rated as the surest shot on the tricolour squad but he was overshadowed by Haslam who turned in a particularly fine card and played in exceptional form.

Hannon played a strong defensive game and was a great stumbling block to the Red and White attackers. These four men held the scoring honours for the evening. Haslam netted seven field goals while Hunter contributed three and scored two penalty shots. Jones tallied three field goals and a free throw, while Hannon made two penalty shots and two baskets.

times intercepting the ball when it seemed certain it would travel to the hands of the Macdonald shots. The R.V.C. team greatly missed Miss Chalk who played in the responsible position of forward on the team, but who was unable to play this game due to a serious laboratory accident which occurred early last week. Miss Petrie, who substituted for her, played very well.

The ball was immediately carried to the Macdonald baskets, from the toss-up, was intercepted by the defense and almost saved but due to an inaccurate pass Miss Taylor secured the ball, and started the score in favor of Mac. Miss Petrie of R.V.C. then evened the score and got a second basket before the opponents again succeeded in intercepting. The Macdonald team however, seemed to be out to win and having the score 2-4 in favor of R.V.C. aroused their fighting mettle, and Miss Taylor again evened the score 4-4. Miss Barry of R.V.C. then got a nice shot in and on being granted a free shot, due to fouling, she gained another point making the score 4-7 for R.V.C.

Two alternate shots on either side then raised the score to 8-11 and then due to good combination on the part of the Macdonald team, Miss Taylor got the ball and scored three baskets for Mac, thus giving them a lead of three points.

Miss Robertson then got the ball at centre and quickly passed it to Miss Barry who scored. There followed

For the Red and White, Philpotts played a hard and consistent game and scored most of his team's points having two field goals and two penalty shots to his credit. Blumenstein on defense was next in this respect with two baskets while Mendelsohn and Boucher each netted one. "Bones" Little got one tally and scored a penalty shot. The McGill players played a hard game but they did not seem to be able to hold the fast travelling Presbyterian forwards and in failing to mark their men close enough, they paved the way for several of the tricolour goals. Only occasionally did they show flashes of real form but at times during the battle they pressed the Queen's men hard and most of their baskets were the direct result of good combination and accurate shooting.

About a minute after the opening whistle Philpotts opened the scoring by netting a pretty basket from under. Hanson came right back and equalled the score. Jones made a penalty shot on a personal foul and a few minutes later came back with a field goal. Mendelsohn netted one on a brilliant combination play which was followed almost immediately by one from Blumenstein. It looked as if the game would develop into a real battle as both teams were playing well with no advantage to either side.

However in quick succession the Presbyterians ran in four baskets giving them a lead of five points. Although the Red and White players made a determined rally they were unable to stem the attack of the opposing forwards who seemed to have struck their stride, and the half ended 20-6 in favour of Queen's.

Play was more equal in the second session 15 points being credited to the tricolour to 11 for McGill.

Soon after the toss up opening play, Hunter fouled Philpotts who was awarded two penalty shots both of which he made. Queen's came back with a pretty field goal and play ceased back and forth with neither team having any apparent advantage. Hunter went off for Jones and the lanky centre's removal made a big difference with the result that McGill tallied three field goals in quick succession.

However the tricolour came right back and their combination was a little too strong for the Red and White players. McGill's last tally came from a shot of Blumenstein's from almost centre and which dropped neatly into the basket. After this the Presbyterians pressed the play and ran in five baskets in quick succession. Although the McGill players tried hard, they were unable to penetrate the sterling defense of the tricolour squad and the final whistle blew with the players from the Limestone City on the long end of a 35-17 score.

much passing from goal to goal without any shooting, but just before the half-time whistle Miss Lyon added another basket to the Macdonald score which now stood 16-13 in their favor.

The play in the second period was faster, Macdonald keeping well in the lead throughout. Miss Baker, defense for R.V.C., did some good intercepting and probably prevented the score from soaring higher. Alternate baskets were scored by both teams until the score stood 24-18. Miss Perry then shot the last basket for R.V.C. and Miss Taylor, perhaps due to faulty passing of the R.V.C. team, found the basket many times on a pass from centre. The final whistle blew for time when the score stood 34-20 in favor of Macdonald.

Following is the line up:

Dear Sir:—In Wednesday's "Daily" appeared a letter from a gentleman early for PUBLICATION.

The Editor, McGill Daily.

Dear Sir:—The recent correspondence in your columns on the matter of a "college levy" on students in the interests of the university teams in particular, and on the whole subject of sport in the university in general, has done a good deal, I think, to clear the air surrounding this vexed question. Much serious discussion on the point has been going on of late in university and outside circles, which points to the formation of certain conclusions in the minds of those in authority, and it seems peculiarly apposite that similar conclusions—inasmuch as they are definite and founded on careful consideration—should now be reached in the mind of the undergraduate body as a whole. I don't belong to either of these categories, but am very interested in the subject myself and so take the liberty of intruding on your space to this extent.

The object of the proposed of five dollars apparently is (1) to create a kind of compulsory attendance at games, (2) to foster "college spirit," and (3) by these means to add lustre and power to the name of McGill as a university.

The germ of this argument is I think, contained in Mr. Tidmarsh's remark that "the various branches of athletics form the chief centre of interest from which our college spirit develops, and if a man is not inclined to participate in them himself, he can acquire the college spirit heat by turning out in support of the various teams." By becoming "an enthusiastic rooter" a man inevitably "picks up a true college spirit."

If we accept the premise that athletics do provide the fons et origo of college spirit, we must agree with Mr. Tidmarsh's conclusions. But is that the function of athletics in a university—or rather, should it be, because it has evidently become so. I don't doubt that it is easier to display one's loyalty for McGill by wearing her colours, by shouting oneself hoarse in statements as to McGill's fame that bear an unfortunate resemblance in tone to "Rule Britannia" and by gloating over the physical prowess of her football and hockey giants. But some at least believe that there is a rather fine—if more restrained—medium of expression. It is temporarily out of fashion to represent a university as the home of things of the mind and spirit, only temporarily, let us hope, and when this—as I consider it—truer conception reinstates itself, we shall not find it easy to out the neuper Sport from the position that half god is now taking.

I dissent therefore, from the standpoint which lays such excessive emphasis on athletics, or better, the non-participating support of athletics, as a vital element in university life. Personally, I should prefer to see twenty rinks on the campus, occupied every night by students playing hockey, and a mere handful passively watching a university match, than twenty empty rinks and a vast crowd of undergraduates shouting in unison under the direction of a cheer leader. As a result of conditions that make possible the first scene, I venture to say that there would be better health, keener minds, and a more valuable and robust type of college spirit in McGill than there would be under the second. "College spirit" is surely too fine and complex a thing to be "picked up" at a football or hockey match.

A second objection to the levy is the "compulsion" that lies behind it. Why should a student go to watch a game if he doesn't wish to? Or pay a fee for following his own inclinations by staying away? If I remember aright when Dean Laing, who has known McGill from both bout and within, was analysing the college spirit of McGill the other night, he laid stress on the essential liberty of action afforded the student here—despite minor details like the one eighth rule, etc. It would be a very considerable curtailment of that liberty if students were compelled, even by the implication involved in paying in advance for games, to attend contests against their will.

For the brief period of our lives which we spend at college some of us are fortunate enough to be gloriously free, in mind and body. Any diminution of that glory I cannot help regarding as tragic, and the tyranny threatened by the cult of athleticism in our colleges would almost obliterate it for a considerable number. We have the opportunity to strike a happy medium between athletics and intellectual pursuits at college and to do proper justice to both, before the former's preponderance grows too overwhelming, and I wish we could seize it.

claret flowed freely. This bout was a hammer and tongs affair; both men stood up against each other and hammered away merrily. Hubbard was given the decision which was by no means popular with the crowd.

The wrestlers again were the chief actors when McEvoy of McGill and Lucas of Toronto in the 126 lb. class displayed their wares. During this bout both men nearly rolled off the stage but were caught before they fell by those in the ringside seats. Lucas got the decision by a shade.

Two strong men faced each other when Howes of McGill and Adams of Toronto, 135 lb. wrestlers, came together. Howes demonstrated his ability of wriggling out of seemingly impossible positions but lost the decision because Adams was on top most of the time and was much more aggressive.

Gray, the classy Toronto 126 lb. boxer who knocked out Adams the McGill man Fri. night scored another knockout, this time a technical one, when he put away Holmes of Queen's. Holmes was given a great hand for his gameness, but he was no match for Gray who was one of the nicest boxers of the evening.

Robertson's long reach helped him to win the bout which followed when he was given the decision over Snow the McGill 135 lb. champion. Robertson used a straight left to advantage and had Snow groggy near the end.

Good wrestling was in evidence when McNaughton of McGill grappled with Stewart of Toronto, in the 147 lb. class. Stewart was a shade better than his opponent, and after an extra two minutes of wrestling was given the decision. McNaughton, however, put up a good fight and there was little to choose between them. Jeckyll the 160 lb. wrestling champion of Toronto got the decision from Wall of Queen's in the bout which followed. Jeckyll was stronger than his opponent, and was on the offensive throughout the bout, while Wall displayed some nice defensive work.

The boxing bout which followed was by far the best performance of the evening. Merritt of McGill and Cotes of Toronto fought a match that seen no equal in any assault-at-arms that has ever been staged. Merritt, with a gameness that brought down the house, came back and knocked his man out, after he had taken heavy punishment from him during the first two rounds. Indeed it seemed at the beginning of the last round that Merritt was due to receive a knockout.

The crowd rose to their feet with one accord when the McGill boy made a wonderful rally, punched his man groggy and knocked him down twice.

MEDICAL MEN HEAR DR. VINCENT TELL OF WORK OF ROCKEFELLER INSTITUTE AT ANNUAL DINNER

About Three Hundred Gathered in the Salle Doree of the Mount Royal Hotel on Saturday Night at Forty-Second Annual Banquet of Medical Undergraduates—Among the Prominent Men Present Were Dr. G. E. Vincent, Sir A. W. Currie, Dean Martin, Sir Charles Gordon, and Many Others

"Forty-two years ago, when a student at Yale, I spent the day which had been set aside as a Day of Prayer for Universities, at the Winter Carnival at Montreal, said Dr. G. E. Vincent in his speech at the 42nd Annual Banquet of the Medical Undergraduate Society held Saturday evening at the Mount Royal Hotel.

For over a half-hour before the announced time of the banquet, the "boys," young and old, began to gather in the hotel lobby and students and teachers were everywhere evident in small groups, extending the glad hand and generally enjoying each other's conversation with an intimacy that is not possible in the lecture room or clinic.

The guests, having all arrived, the invitation was accepted with the assumed casual air which is deemed necessary to accompany dignity, yet the eagerness and desire to see the banquet hall was evident everywhere, and when they were inside, the room was beautiful. "La Salle Doree" is always very pretty, but with added decorations, it was even nicer. Across the South end of the room was the head table, above the centre of which was the big Red and White McGill Banner, bearing the name "McGill," and on one side the Union Jack, on the other, the Stars and Stripes. Part way down the room on the right side was the Orchestra and above it there rested the class banner of Med. '24, with its combination of army and college symbols.

The three long rows of tables, with their flowers, white linen, sparkling silver and dazzling glassware was a sight worth seeing, and when the two hundred and fifty guests had seated themselves, it was an occasion to live long in the memories of all present.

The guests were well looked after, the chairman, Mr. J. C. Simpson and his genial and efficient helper, A. J. Skelley, made each and every one feel welcome and quickly had a place for them at one of the many tables.

Under no other conditions could the same array of noted guests be gathered together. At the right of the Chairman was the guest of honor, Dr. Geo. E. Vincent, and on his left was the Principal, Sir Arthur Currie. Next to the guest of honor was the Dean, Dr. Martin, and also at that table were Dean Harwood of the University of Montreal, Sir Charles Gordon, Dr. A. D. Blackader, Emeritus Professor of Therapeutics, Professors Archibald, Finley, Bazin, and McCallum as well as about thirty-five other members of the Medical Faculty.

Among the guests were welcomed a number of recent graduates now residents of the Royal Victoria and Montreal General Hospitals.

Student guests were there, "Jerry" Campbell of Varsity, C. W. Cohoon of Queen's and Jean L. Coupal of the University of Montreal; also Errol C. Amaron, President of the Students' Council of McGill.

Here mention can very well be made of Cloutier's Orchestra which added no small contribution to making the whole affair such an unqualified success. With its music and songs, with its devotion to duty, such that the music never for a moment lost any of its pep while others partook of good things, with its parodies to introduce each speaker, and most of all with its abounding "pep," it helped to create that atmosphere of friendliness and good will which was so evident, and the orchestra deserved the high compliment later paid them by the guest of honor of being the best Medical orchestra he had ever heard.

The supper itself was of first class order, both in quantity and quality, and also in the way it was served. The contra-indications to describing it here, are plainly seen. To those who were not there, to describe it would be an act of cruelty; to those who were there, the description would be inadequate. However, when the hour of nine had arrived and the eating was over, the looks of "full" contentment spoke well for those who had prepared the meal. The dinner had been taken, in most part, according to the prescription which appeared on the cover of the programme. This design is another of the many which are evidence of the artistic ability of H. G. Ross, Med. '24.

At 9 p.m. the chairman, J. C. Simpson called the banquet to order, and the toast to "The King" followed by the National Anthem, and the toast to "The President of the U.S.," followed by the "Star Spangled Banner."

The chairman then spoke a few words of welcome to Dr. Vincent, Dean Harwood and Sir Arthur Currie, and then called on C. J. Tidmarsh, a well-known member of Med. '24 to propose the toast to The Faculty.

Tidmarsh, in a very clear and pleasing way, traced out the changing attitude and deepening appreciation that the students have experienced in the years under the instruction of the professors, and the students showed by their response the high esteem in which they hold their teachers.

In Dean C. E. Winter's reply, it had held up to the scholars the greatness of the Faculty in the past; the ability and keenness of the present Chancellor and board of Governors, and finally McGill's splendid outlook for the future, mentioning the New Pathological Institute, Co-operation of our Hospitals, the proposed new Maternity Hospital, the new department of Experimental Medicine, and the new co-operation being developed between the Faculties of Medicine of McGill and University of Montreal.

Next, the chairman called on Sir Arthur Currie to propose the toast to "Our Guest." Sir Arthur rose amid great applause. The students have come to know that whenever Sir Arthur speaks to them they hear something good. He spoke of the great influence in our national life of the Medicine men, men of earnest endeavor, skill and devotion; of the encouragement given such men by the Rockefeller Foundation.

Then came the speech of the evening. Never have the members of the Medical Undergraduate Society listened to a more eloquent, inspiring and instructive address.

In the early part of his talk he played the light of his humor upon himself, and mentioned, whereas this was the 42nd Banquet, 42 years ago when a student at Yale he spent the Day of Prayer for the Universities in Montreal at the Winter Carnival. Then he congratulated the orchestra on their ability, and told them they were upholding the British traditions of developing in other ways as well as Medicine.

Dr. Vincent went on to tell he had visited 425 Medical Colleges in 70 different countries of the world, and so could take upon himself the task of setting McGill in a proper place in the world picture. We now as we go out have a great pride in McGill locally, but as time goes on we will come to take pride not only in McGill but in a world wide profession. If a Medical Map of the world were drawn up there are three great Systems of Medicine, British, Latin and German. The British, represented by Red, would cover the British Isles, with Edinburgh and London as the chief centres; Canada, Pekin, Shanghai, Hong Kong, Australia, New Zealand, Singapore, and India with its twelve Medical Schools, to some extent, Egypt, and South Africa, so its influence goes right around the world.

Latin Medicine, represented by Blue, with Paris as centre, all France, south west Europe, Spain, Indo-China, Central Mexico, Central and South America.

German Medicine, represented by Green, covering Central Europe, Roumania, Constantinople and especially Japan. In the U. S. there is a blending of all these colors of Red, Blue and Green, as was true to some extent in Canada.

The speaker then proceeded to give the characteristics of these systems of Medicine as follows: British Medicine laid stress on the thorough training of all round efficient general practitioner, upon his constant training in the out patient departments and wards of the Hospitals, upon the development of the Pre-medical Sciences in close relation to practical Medicine, upon a practical yet scientific basis. This is the pride of the great British Medical Schools. It is this that has caused one great British Medical School to be the greatest physiology centre of the world. This system turns out well grounded, well trained practical medical men.

The French School
The great outstanding characteristic here is brilliancy. Pasteur stands out as the great example of keen insight, originality and power of thought. This school has made great contributions in Surgery and Psychiatry. Here the many are sacrificed to the training of the few brilliant ones. Brilliancy is the great watch word of the French school.

The German School
Two great characteristics. Institutions of Research and Clinics. Each branch of the Science is separate, presided over by a great man under whom works a board of trained assistants so that team play combined with industry, makes German Medical Science high in research work. The same is true of the clinics, the great Professor presides over the clinic, he is always there, so he and his staff make great advances along their one particular line. So one sees why Vienna and Berlin have been the Mecca of Medical men for years.

Each of these three great types of Medicine have had and are having their influence the world over, in the U. S. and in Canada, we are trying to build up a system organized so as to get the best out of each of these great systems.

JEWISH PSYCHOLOGY BY THE MACCABEANS

Racial Differences Due to Environment and History

A meeting of the Maccabean Circle was held in the Union on Sunday afternoon. The address of the afternoon was delivered by Otto Klineberg, M.A., who dealt with some problems in "Jewish Psychology," a subject which elicited much interesting and thoughtful discussion.

In treating his subject the speaker pointed out that in psychology there are two schools of opinion with regard to group or race psychology; one claiming that there exists a race psychology which is the cause of racial differences and superiority; the other claiming that there are no fundamental differences, and that racial differences which do become manifest, are due only to environment and history. He adopted the latter theory as more scientific in his treatment of the Jewish mental make-up because he claimed that it was on a more definite and firm basis.

He then went on to point out that ever since the Jew has been without a land of his own, his position has been one of political and social inferiority, which has resulted in his being either "excessively humble, or full of arrogance." Using this as his premise, the speaker analyzed Jewish contributions to general culture and civilization.

Mr. Louis King, accompanied by Mrs. M. Fineberg, rendered a violin solo which was very well received.

McGILL JUNIORS TO PLAY U. OF MONTREAL

To-night the McGill Juniors meet the First University of Montreal Junior team in a scheduled game to be played at Loyola Ring at 9 p.m. The Juniors have seven straight wins to their credit with no losses. The University of Montreal stands next in points to the Juniors and if the Juniors are able to get a win in to-night's game they will clinch the title in their group. While there are two more games to play a win to-night will greatly effect the morale of the team. The team should be very closely contested as the teams are very evenly matched. The McGill Juniors had a strenuous and good workout on Saturday afternoon and are all in the pink of condition. A good game is promised to all fans who turn out and see the game. There are three games scheduled for the evening of which the McGill, U. of M. is the second. The McGill team has rounded into a smooth working machine and has on it men of outstanding ability.

The McGill team will be chosen from the following men; Abbott; Mickles; Deleigh; Roncardelli; McGerrigle; Johnston; Boos; Gordon; Macdonald.

Cuthbert wants to know why the voice of love has such a metallic ring.

are brought together and both see the bearing their work has on the other. Students go from Laboratories early into Clinics and so come to see these are but different sides of the same problem.

This is the work of the Rockefeller Institution, to try to build up a great world type of education which will be a more efficient and more successful type of world Medicine, so that every advance of knowledge, every constructive idea, every good done a McGill is a contribution to this great type of World Medicine. Every individual who goes out with a good training carries ideals with him that makes him feel he is responsible to try to raise the standard of the new World Medicine.

The speaker offered congratulations to those present for being members of such a great institution as McGill; of such a great Dominion as Canada, and of their international relationship. In his closing he said he could not think of a happier opportunity of spending lives which had once been spared under fire than in the service of humanity.

The speaker sat down amid the tremendous applause, after which he was given three cheers and the old McGill yell. The speaker then called on W. F. Emmions, Med. '24, President of the Medical Undergraduate Society, to propose the toast to the "Sister Universities," which was responded to by Jean Coupal, of the University of Montreal.

Professor Archibald was then called upon to propose the toast to the Graduating Class. As he arose it was quite apparent the respect in which he is held by the undergraduates of Medicine. He spoke of the respect due Youth by Age, and of the confidence that Age has in Youth, and reminded the students of Bacon's saying, "count every man debtor to his profession."

This toast was answered by the President of Med. '24, "Tec" Alward. With his ever-ready wit, "Tec" elucidated to some length with a fund of humor and an overflow of technical terms, which brought down the house as he worked out the "case" of Med. '24. The Banquet closed with the National Anthem, followed by the McGill yell.

This is without doubt one of the best Medical Banquets held in years and the classes to follow have a high standard to keep up to.

COMMERCIALS TO HEAR GRANT HALL

Mass Meeting in Union on Tuesday Night

The Commercial Society intend to hold a mass meeting on Tuesday night 19th Feb at 8.15 p.m. in the Union Cafeteria. The speaker for the evening is Mr. Grant Hall Vice President of the C. P. R. It is expected that there will be a large crowd present.

The Commercial Society has so far had a very successful season and they have been very lucky in having so many interesting speakers. The speaker at this meeting is sure to have a subject that will be intensely interesting to his listeners. He has such a very great knowledge of commercial matters that he may be rated as one of the best authorities in Canada.

The program also includes some music and "Bats" will be served during the evening.

VARSITY SCORED DECISIVE VICTORY IN B. W. F.

To win by the finest exhibition of the old McGill spirit seen in a long while, Dr. Lamb led three rousing cheers to the boxers who showed a gameness which will not be equalled for some time to come. The 160 lb. boxing bout was also a very spectacular one, when Hughes of McGill crossed bluffs with Black of Toronto. Black brought down with him a great reputation and he lived up to it Saturday night. His ring generalship was marvellous and only the footwork and gameness of Gordie Hughes prevented the bout ending in a knockout. Gordie gave a great exhibition of pluck but in Black he was against a more experienced and finished boxer, and lost the decision.

Freedman of McGill won the 175 lb. wrestling bout which followed, when he pinned the Queen's man, Kelly, to the mat just before the bell. Freedman led the attack throughout, and was on top most of the time, winning the bout by a wide margin.

George Rumpke, the heavyweight among the wrestlers, was given a big ovation when he stepped into the ring to meet Thaler of Toronto. Although George did not have such an easy time as on Friday night he nevertheless displayed a great knowledge of wrestling and pinned Thaler's shoulders to the mat twice in 7 minutes. The second fall which Rumpke obtained was a very remarkable one; and he demonstrated his knowledge of the game by the scissors hold which won him the bout.

The 175 lb. boxers were seen in action for the first time when Shute of Toronto came up against Abinovitch of McGill. There was no semi-final in this class owing to the fact that there were only these two entries. Both boxers mixed it freely but Shute got Abinovitch groggy when he hit him on the nose with a laymaker which started at the floor. Shute followed up his advantage well and succeeded in knocking out Abinovitch. The heavyweight leather-pushers wound up the evening in a heavy hitting contest. Right from the bell the opposing mitt men, McLean of McGill and Mahon of Toronto showed that they meant business. For some time the thud of heavy blows resounded through the hall and finally Mahon got his opponent groggy. He scored a clean knockout when Mahon hit the floor heavily with his head following a left to the head. Mahon won his bout handily, although at times he seemed rather shaky on his legs. McLean put up one of the gamiest fights of the evening.

All in all, every bout was one of a very high standard, and all the boxing events were so exciting that the spectators had great difficulty in keeping the silence that had been demanded of them.

Although the Queen's men did not win any bouts, they showed a gameness which stamp them worthy opponents of any team that participated. The McGill boxers also displayed great gameness, most of all Merritt and Hughes, who are two fighters who will make the name of McGill even more respected in the halls of Varsity and Queen's. The Red and White wrestlers with two exceptions seemed to be playing in hard luck all evening, losing decisions by very small margins but finished strong in the nice performance of Freedman and Rumpke.

Of the Varsity team every man showed he was a finished expert in his line but the two outstanding Blue and White performers were Grey and Black. These two men gave an exhibition of clever boxing and ring generalship that will not be equalled for some time to come.

SOCIETE FRANCAISE HAS THEATRE PARTY

The Societe Francaise held a very pleasant soiree on Saturday evening. In the form of a theatre party to the Orpheum to see Moliere's "L'Avare" as presented by Maurice De Ferand of the Comedie Francaise.

Although the party consisted of thirteen members no greater mishap occurred than certain manifestations of mirth displayed at the wrong time.

The audience which filled the theatre to capacity was delighted with M. De Ferand's performance of the role of Harpagon the miser, as well as with the work of other members of the cast.

ADDRESS BY CHAPLAIN OF KING GEORGE

Rev. G. A. Studdert Kennedy M.C., Will Speak to Students

"WOODBINE WILLIE"
To-morrow at Five P.M. in Union

By this time practically all the students of McGill have come to know, either from their friends who heard him at Indianapolis or through the columns of the paper, of "Woodbine Willie," but perhaps it will not be amiss to once again bring to remembrance that tomorrow at 5 p.m., he will speak at the Union.

McGill has been very favored in renowned speakers this year, each one bringing something a little different, some appealing to one class and some to another but in Mr. Kennedy one finds a man who appeals to all for he is a preacher, a soldier, a teacher a thinker and a man among men who knows their difficulties and who has done his part in helping to give to humanity some little part in the solution of its problems.

The Rev. G. A. Studdert Kennedy, M.C., H.C.F., is rector of St. Edmund's Church, London, National Messenger of the Industrial Christian Fellowship, and Chaplain to the King and is this year special lecturer on Christian Doctrine at the Berkeley Divinity School, Middletown, Connecticut.

Mr. Studdert Kennedy has been described as the most remarkable preacher of the day. The Church Times says of him "He speaks as the preaching friars may have spoken, in the language of the wayfaring man taken up into and fused with the eloquence of a master" and "we doubt if any priest of our communion, or perhaps any communion at all, has such a gift of startling speech."

During the war he was known to the "Tommies" as "Woodbine Willie," a name received for his zeal in distributing to them the favorite "Woodbine" cigarette. In his "Rough Rhymes of a Padre" he has written a little verse entitled "Woodbine Willie." They gave me this name like their nature,

Compacted of laughter and tears,
A sweet that was born of the bitter,
A joke that was torn from the years.

Let me bear it still remembering,
All the length of my unpaid debt,
For the men to whom I owed—God's Peace.

I have paid with a cigarette.
Besides his "Rough Rhymes of a Padre" he has printed a number of books of popular theology, the best known of which are entitled "Food for the Fed-Up" (Published in this country under the title "I believe.") "The Hardest Part" and "Lies." The weekly Dispatch spoke of these books as the most powerful of their kind since Bunyan.

If a Hottentot taught
A Hottentot tot
Are the Hottentot tot could totter,
Should the Hottentot tot
Be taught to say aught
Or taught or what ought to be taught—er?
